A For great looking makeup, always start with super clean, well-moisturized skin. Then, apply pressed or loose powder over your face with a large dusting brush. This will absorb excess oil and help to set makeup for long-lasting looks. (Pressed powder contains traces of oil, so if you're prone to breakouts, opt for loose powder.) Next, spread a thin layer of foundation over your face using a makeup sponge or clean fingers. Be certain that the shade matches your skin tone. To add color, apply blush just on the "apples" of your cheeks (the fleshy part that forms when you smile). On eyes, eyeshadow comes first, then mascara

How Happy
Are You?

If only boyfriends came

Q My boyfriend and I have tried French kissing, but I'm not sure I'm doing it right. How do you do it?

A When you're French kissing, it helps to let the guy take the lead. Part your lips gently, and let him explore your mouth with his tongue. While his tongue is in your mouth, you can let your own tongue slowly "dance" around his. When he pulls his tongue back, you can slowly follow with your own tongue and explore his mouth. Sometimes you each may take turns moving your tongue around, or you might both move tongues at the same time. All this should flow gently; French kisses don't start and end abruptly. And keep in mind, Frenching isn't a casual thing. Closed-mouth kisses are your best bets for guys you're just getting to know.

► "Hell, yeah! Especially if I'm paying for dinner and the tickets and all that stuff. The prom's supposed to be fun, and that's one of the best ways to make it fun."

Do guys expect sex on prom night?

■ EATING MAKES YOU SMART. If you don't eat, you zone out a lot more easily and you lose the ability to think abstractly, which can be major drawbacks—in the middle of class or the middle of a conversation. It can even be dangerous. When you don't eat enough, your ability to perceive when you've lost too much weight declines, explains Dr. Gerald J. Bargman, founder and medical director of The Institute for Eating Disorders, in Madison, Wisconsin.

■ EATING KEEPS YOU ALIVE. Food is not optional—we need to eat to live. And remember: It's important to eat a balanced, healthy diet. You can eat a lot of the wrong foods and still suffer from malnutrition. (But even eating foods that are bad for you once in a while is better than not eating at all.)

■ EATING MAKES YOU ATTRACTIVE. If you don't get the proper nutrients, your nails get brittle, your hair falls out, your skin gets dry, and your breath smells bad. And yo-yo dieting can give you stretch marks on your thighs, your stomach, and even your upper arms.

■ EATING HELPS YOU LOSE WEIGHT. Strange but true: When you don't eat enough, your body thinks it's starving. To stay alive, it hoards fat. If you go off your diet and then back on it, your body will continue this pattern and it'll get harder and harder to lose weight. Even if you stick to your diet, you'll lose weight more slowly than you would if you ate sensibly.

■ EATING IMPRESSES GUYS. "When a girl is comfortable eating in front of me, it shows she's a real person, and that's cool," says Sandro Tuzzo, eighteen, a freshman at the University of Colorado at Boulder.

■ EATING IS FUN. Food looks good, smells good, and tastes good and our bodies crave it. In addition, eating is a major social activity. It's a reason for people to get together and have a good time

Tucker a meat eater

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country singer Tanya Tucker wants to make it clear she is a meat eater as well as an animal lover.

Cattle breeders have been sending letters to Tucker since she was quoted in Woman's Day magazine saying she wanted to cut down on red meat, publicist Cathy Gurley said Thursday.

Tucker also said in the article that she supported animal rights.

"I could easily eat beef all day long, so when I'm asked what I have to be careful of in my diet — that's it," said Tucker.

"I raise horses and cattle, and I'm very conscious of the way they're treated. When I talk about animal rights, I'm really talking about animal welfare," she said.

Tucker's hits include "Delta Dawn" and "Down to My Last Teardrop."

We were just talking & we realized the we could both eat beef all day long.

BOYS!

The boy you want can be yours. Here's how.

If you only get dressed up once in a blue moon, you want to make it good. So you can get totally prom prepped, here's a bright, sexy, seriously wearable formal fix you can afford, plus comments from our panel of guys

"If you've got it, flaunt it, but I'll protect it."

"It's not too puffy; I think that looks tacky. Girls should dress sexy."

"Because she'll have my attention the whole time."

"I like this dress for only one reason. . . so I can make all the guys jealous."

"If the girl can wear a super-sexy dress, then hopefully it will make her feel that way."

Someone's going to get the boy you want, and it might as well be you.

... I wish it were darker in here so he couldn't see my skin, pitch black would be nice...

6 You're at a restaurant with some friends. When a totally hot waiter walks by and you spill your drink all over your shirt, you:

- a) tell your friends that the waiter bumped your elbow.
- b) go into a detailed explanation of what a slob you are.
- c) joke that sometimes it's worth sacrificing a shirt for a cute guy.

Will you ever admit you're wrong?

LIFE?

3 Your boyfriend tells you he has to spend less time with you for the next month because he's under a lot of pressure at school. You:

- a) get steamed. He's obviously been listening to that redhead in his history class who keeps warning him not to get tied down.
- b) wonder if you were too possessive and scared him away.
- c) aren't thrilled about it but decide to give him the time he needs—he has been busy lately and, after all, it's only for a month.
